

GREEK INTIMATION CAUSES ANXIETY

May Disarm Any Entente Allied Troops Seeking Refuge in Greece

TEUTONS CLAIM SUCCESS

Progress Is Apparently Slow, the Serbians Having Reached Their Mountain Fortresses

RUSS CONTINUE OFFENSIVE

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The intimation of the Greek government that any entente allied troops seeking refuge in Greek territory will be disarmed has been the cause of considerable anxiety to the entente powers and consequently Field Marshal Earl Kitchener's Near East visit gains added importance.

Demand Definition of Attitude.

According to belated despatches received from Athens, Greece bases her decision on international law while the entente ministers contend that the treaty accorded troops to enter the country through Saloniki permits them to retire by the same route, should it become necessary for them to do so. The men are demanding that Greece unequivocally define the attitude she will observe should such an eventuality present itself.

Besides the claim to hospitality, which the entente allies declare they have on Greece, in view of the then premier Venizelos' invitation to them to send a force to Saloniki to enable Greece to fulfill her treaty obligations to Serbia, which, however, Greece repudiated, Earl Kitchener and the entente ministers are likely to draw the attention of King Constantine and his government to the fact that the constitutionalism of Greece was guaranteed by France, Russia and Great Britain and that it was only obtained after Great Britain had ceded the Ionian Islands to the country and three powers had agreed to contribute $22,000 yearly for the personal use of the king.

Germans Assure Protection.

This, it is contended, binds the Greek people to the entente allies and should King Constantine overrule the constitution which the followers of M. Venizelos insist he did when he dissolved the chamber, it is suggested in some quarters that King Constantine should be reminded that his retention of the throne of Greece depends on the continuance of friendly neutrality toward the entente powers. The Germans on the other hand are declared to be assuring the Greek government that Greece will be protected against the entente allies should that country support the central powers, and that as evidence of the ability of Austria and Germany to do this they are despatching more submarines to the Mediterranean which could be used against any fleet threatening Greek ports.

Meantime the fight for Serbia proceeds without abatement. The Austro-Germans and Bulgarians claim repeated success, but it is apparent their progress is slow. The Serbians now having reached their mountain fortresses in central Serbia and the roads, or want of roads, making it difficult for the invaders to bring up their heavy artillery with which they always back up their infantry.

Little Change in South.

In the south there is little or no change. In the district northwest of Uskup the Serbians still hold the Katchanik defile, barring the Bulgarians from the great plain of Kosovo, while to the southwest of Uskup a desperate struggle has taken place for the possession of Tetovo, which has changed hands several times. The Bulgarians recaptured Tetovo yesterday but a report at he Serbian location tonight says the Serbians have again re-occupied the town.

The Bulgarians are reported in great force southwest of Tetovo, where they hope to check the French advance on that town and in the direction of the Babuna Pass, further west.

There has been a revival of hard fighting on the western front. The Germans claim to have captured 300 metres of a trench near Ecurie while the French report the repulse of German attacks against the Labyrinth in Artois and also against Tahure in Champagne.

Russ Continue Offensive.

The Russians continued their offensive west of Riga and are making an effort to secure control of the railway which connects Mitau with Windau. Father south they have attacked the Germans near Smogorin on the railway running eastward from Vilna. This attack probably was undertaken to prevent the Germans from sending reinforcements to the Riga sector.

The Italians are continuing their offensive against the Austrians. Vienna's report, like preceding ones says, the offensive has failed.

British forces in Mesopotamia are reported to have been two weeks ago at Azizeh, 40 miles by road from Bagdad.

GARRISON WILL URGE PUBLICATION OF REPORT

GENERAL STAFF'S FINDING DIFFERS FROM CONTINENTAL ARMY SCHEME

Secretary Believes Public is Entitled to All Available Information Relating to National Defense—No Synopsis of Report Has Been Given Out.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Immediate publication of the report of the army general staff on the military needs of the country, differing materially from the administration's continental army scheme, will be urged upon President Wilson by Secretary Garrison.

Has Made Exhaustive Study.

The secretary who has described the plan to be suggested as only a step in the right direction, said today he believed the public was entitled to all available information relating to national defense. The general staff has made an exhaustive study of the problem of defending the insular possessions. Its report it is understood recommends increasing the regular army to 250,000 men permanently with the colors and with reserves of 300,000 trained men to fill gaps in the force. Behind this it is proposed to have a force of one million men with at least a year's training, giving the country an army of about 1,500,000 fully equipped and easily mobilized.

No synopsis of the report has been given out and details are not available. The administration plan was prepared by Secretary Garrison and a special board of officers and officials after careful scrutiny of the staff report. It was decided that the staff proposals were of such a radical nature that there virtually was no hope of getting them thru. Various unofficial estimates have placed the cost involved at more than twice that of the continental army scheme which would reach a total of half a billion dollars in six years. The first year's expenditures under the staff plan, it is said, would approach $400,000,000 and the continuing expense $60,000,000 annually.

Takes Year to Make Soldier Fit.

The staff estimates, it is reported, that it takes at least a year to make a soldier fit to join the fighting line. The continental army program, contemplates only six months of hard training, distributed in two month periods thru three years. It was adopted to diminish the expense and yet produce a force of citizen soldiers nearly a million strong to support the regulars, increased to approximately 142,000 from the 103,000 now in the service.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE IS PROBING ALLEGED WAR PLOTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Handicapped by the lack of specific laws to protect the nation's neutrality the department of justice is investigating alleged war plots with a view to instituting criminal proceedings under the Sherman anti-trust act. The inquiry, it was learned tonight, is directed particularly at plots supposed to have been formed in connection with efforts of pro-German and pro-Austrian sympathizers to cause strikes in munition plants in the United States. The department's theory is that if there is a conspiracy to interfere with the manufacture of munitions it is a conspiracy in restraint of interstate and foreign commerce.

CHICAGO GRAND OPERA COMPANY OPENS SEASON AT AUDITORIUM

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—The Chicago Grand Opera company, opened its fifth season at the Auditorium tonight presenting La Gioconda with a cast which included: Madame Emmy Destinn, soprano; Madame Eleanor DeCleros, contralto; Frances Ingram, Amadeo Bassi, Ancona and Arimondi.

The inaugural performance was a brilliant social event. The engagement this season is for ten weeks with Cleofonte Campanini as general director.

Among his new associates this season are Egon Pollak, the Wagnerian director and Rodolfo Ferrari, the Italian director.

GREAT LAKES FREIGHT TRAFFIC PROMISES TO BE HEAVIEST IN YEARS

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Freight traffic on the Great Lakes promises to be the heaviest in years for November, according to Capt. William Nicholas, United States steamboat inspector who said today there was not enough seaman on hand to man the boats ready to clear this port. The heavy traffic is due in large measure, it is said, to war orders, the increased cargoes being ore, grain and other shipments consigned to Europe. The steel shipments are unusually large.

FRENCH TROOPS RE-EMBARK.

Berlin, Nov. 15; (by wireless to Sayville).—According to the Frankfurter Zeitung the French general staff has given up its intention to send troops by way of Santaguranta on the Adriatic sea to southern Albania, as patrols which had arrived there reported that this route was impossible. The French troops landed in Santaguranta, therefore already have re-embarked, the newspaper says.

CHURCHILL SPEAKS IN OWN DEFENSE

Addresses House of Commons Following Resignation of Cabinet Post

REPLIES TO CRITICS

Shows That Experts Counselled and Concurred Before Expeditions Were Undertaken

WINS SYMPATHY OF HOUSE

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Winston Spencer Churchill, who has been the most severely criticised member of the government and who has been held personally responsible for the loss of Rear-Admiral Sir Christopher Craddock's fleet in the Pacific, the destruction by submarines of the British Cruiser Cressy, Hogue, and Aboukir, the ill-fated Antwerp expedition and the initiation of the naval attacks on the Dardanelles, delivered a speech in his own defense in the house of commons, following the resignation of his post in the cabinet.

"I won't have it said," was his dramatic assertion, referring to the Dardanelles attack, "that this was a civilian plan foisted by a political amateur upon reluctant officers and experts."

And this sums up his reply to all his critics.

Experts Counselled Moves.

In every case he showed that experts had counselled and concurred before any of the expeditions which had been condemned were undertaken, and it was clear before he had gone far, that the house of commons sympathized with him. For months Mr. Churchill has lived under reproaches. His entrance to the house today was passed almost unnoticed. As he rose, his supporters gave him enthusiastic cheers. Approval increased in volume as he answered one charge after another and he concluded amid a hurricane of applause, while members of all political parties crossed the house to congratulate him.

There was nothing apologetic about this speech of the former first lord of the admiralty, who some months ago was transferred to the chancellorship of the Duchy of Lancaster, the office he has just resigned. His references to Admiral Lord Fisher, the former first sea lord, who, he said, had not openly opposed the Dardanelles undertaking, were spoken in firm tones of condemnation.

In the opinion of the house, Mr. Churchill fully justified every step he took while head of the admiralty. Was in Full Agreement With Experts.

As to the despatch of Rear-Admiral Craddock's squadron, he said, he was in full agreement with the experts and advisers of that time—Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg and Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Sturdee and that the dispositions were the best that could be made in the circumstances.

There was no truth in the charge that he had ordered, against the advice of experts the Hogue, Cressy and Aboukir to remain at sea where they were sunk by German submarines. The Antwerp expedition originated with Lord Kitchener, the secretary for war and the French government; while the naval attack on the Dardanelles was elaborately considered and had the full support of the advisers at home and those on the spot.

Both with regard to Antwerp and the Dardanelles, Mr. Churchill, for the purpose of defending himself against reproaches, went a little further than merely producing evidence that he had followed expert advice. A month before the Antwerp expedition was undertaken, he said, he had advised with Premier Asquith, Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, and Lord Kitchener as to the dangerous situation developing then and the grave consequences to admiralty interests that would result from the loss of the fortress.

"But," he said, "no action was taken."

Offers to Provide Transportation.

As to the Dardanelles, before a naval attack was undertaken, he offered transports for 40,000 troops from Egypt, on the chance of their being wanted but was informed that no troops were available and that if they were, they should not be used in Gallipoli. The naval scheme was advanced by Admiral Carden.

The third attack was about to begin on March 18th, when, after consultation with Admiral Robeck and General Sir Ian Hamilton, it was decided to postpone it until the troops were ready. He opposed delay, but was overruled by the experts. He rather inclined his speech to criticize the long periods which were allowed to elapse between the attacks since the army arrived.

Regarding the Antwerp expedition, Mr. Churchill said it was not arranged by him, but was planned by Field Marshal Kitchener and the

VILLA ATTACKS HERMOSILLO

LAREDO, Texas, Nov. 15.—People are dying in the streets and food riots are of almost daily occurrence in towns thruout the state of Chihuahua, controlled by Villa forces, according to passengers arriving here today from that portion of the Mexican interior.

Food supplies have been cut off from the south and Villa and his government are unable to furnish food supplies from the north, it is said. It was believed, the passengers said, that if the entrance and conquest of the Carranza forces was long delayed Chihuahua City would be stricken beyond immediate rehabilitation.

General Carranza and his party were reported to have arrived at Saltillo today and it was expected they would remain several days there. The first chief is in close touch with General Alvaro Obregon, his chief military commander, and is being fully advised of the situation in Sonora and points along the border.

Discuss Mexico Questions.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador accredited by Mr. Hohler, charge of the British legation at Mexico City, called at the state department today and discussed Mexican questions with Secretary Lansing. They were particularly interested in prospects for settlement of claims growing out of the American occupation of Vera Cruz. It is understood the date of recognition of the de facto government in Mexico by Great Britain and her allies will depend upon the nature of the report to be made to Secretary Lansing this week by Emilio Arredondo, just back from a conference with General Carranza.

The state department announced tonight that permission had been granted the de facto government to send former Villa soldiers who have been granted amnesty over American territory from Agua Prieta to Piedras Negras. Several train loads of these soldiers already are being moved under the permit.

A flying column of Villa forces has penetrated the state of Jalisco, according to today's state department advices and there may be fighting soon also in the vicinity of the cities of Guadalajara and Colima.

Villa Attacks Hermosillo.

Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 15.—Hermosillo, capital of the state of Sonora, was the objective of troop movements by both Villa and Carranza forces today. General Diguez, reported to have at his command 8,000 men and twenty-four cannon, is said to be entrenched in the capital awaiting Villa's assault. Reports to Nogales said Villa already had begun the attack on the town. He is said to have with him, or coming to his support, 11,000 men, including 1500 Yaqui Indians. Six thousand men are reported on the way from Guaymas to reinforce Diguez.

Seven thousand Carranza troops with 20 field pieces are marching from Agua Prieta to Naco, taking the shortest route to bring them up on Villa's rear. This movement was begun yesterday at the direction of General Alvaro Obregon, in command of the Carranza forces. General Calles, who has been in command of the Agua Prieta garrison, left for Naco today, announcing that he would take personal command of the troops moving to attack Villa from the north, while Diguez menaces him from the south. General Jose Rodriguez, the Villa commander who evacuated Naco yesterday today abandoned Cananea to which point he had moved when pursued by a Carranza force under Colonel Lazaro Cardenas.

Liquor.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Thomas Hennessey, saloonkeeper, politician and sometimes bondsman, with half a dozen words, put the land on the lake shore claimed by Capt. George Wellington Streeter, into prohibition territory tonight—something the police thus far have been unable to accomplish.

Hennessey is the bondsman, who goes Streeter and his wife and follower out of custody when they are arrested. Tonight he told the Captain that if any more beer was sold in "Streeterville" he would withdraw from their bonds. After a few minutes deliberation, Streeter made the announcement, "the deestrick is dry."

Capt. George Wellington Streeter, who yesterday defended unsuccessfully his home on the sand lots of Lake Michigan, swung like a pendulum in and out of police custody today.

Streeter, his wife, Stella, and fifteen others taken in the Sunday raid on Streeterville, where according to the police, Streeter was enjoying a lively business in the sale of intoxicants, appeared in court in the morning and demanded jury trials. The cases were assigned to another court and Streeter and his followers were liberated until a date could be set for hearing.

Before he left the court room however, Streeter was again arrested charged with having sold liquor without a license on Nov. 10th and 12th. He was released later on this charge and his hearing set for tomorrow.

FAY RELATES THE STORY OF HIS LIFE

Is Ready to Plead Guilty to Government's Charges and Go to Jail

TALKS FOR FIVE HOURS

Would Be Head of Gang of Bomb Makers Talks Freely and of His Own Volition

LEAD BACK TO FOUR SOURCES

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Robert Fay, self-styled lieutenant in the German army and by his own confession would be head of a gang of bomb makers which sought to disable or destroy munition-laden ships sailing from New York to the entente allies told the story of his life today to Assistant United States District Attorney Knox. Fay talked freely, fully and of his own volition for five hours without interruption. What he said was not made public but at the conclusion of the session, Mr. Knox announced that all that Fay wanted to do now was to plead guilty to the government's charges against him and go to jail.

Fay's long talk with Mr. Knox was made up on his own solicitation and without promise of immunity or leniency.

Carries Him Back to Germany.

The statement which the prisoner dictated carried him back to Germany, almost to the date of his birth, it covered the high lights of his service in the German army, told in detail of his alleged mission to America and recited his movements and activities here.

Whether it was true in its essentials, District Attorney Marshall said afterwards had yet to be determined but in some respects it was verified by information which the government had collected from other sources.

There is no doubt," Mr. Marshall said, "that his name is really Fay and that he served in the German army. As to the rest, we do not know. His statement differs somewhat from his previous story but admits his guilt of the charges against him."

What Fay told Mr. Knox today leads back to a source to which already has been traced another case under investigation by the government, according to Roger B. Wood, an assistant in Mr. Marshall's office. Mr. Wood has prepared most of the cases in the passport frauds and also prepared the government's case against Karl Buezn and other officials of the Hamburg-American line, indicted on a charge of conspiracy.

Lead Back to Four Sources.

"Five cases of this sort lead back to four sources," Mr. Wood said. "They are the Fay case, the Buezn case and the three passport cases."

"In none of the cases did the actual defendants know what the defendants in the other cases were doing. The four sources, however, directing these five cases are very close together—very."

"It is my belief that all four men reported to and took orders from a man who was the director of all the trouble of this sort in the United States."

"If you could prove this," Mr. Wood was asked, "would you or could you prosecute this fifth man?"

"All I can say to that," he replied "is that under the law we cannot prosecute any diplomatic representative of a foreign country."

Take Fay Back to the Tombs.

When Fay ended his statement late today he was taken back to the Tombs.

The statement was made without questioning or prompting. It contained many leads, it is said, about which the government lawyers want more information.

Both Mr. Marshall and Mr. Knox declined to say whether anyone else was implicated in Fay's new statement. Fay has been somewhat of a puzzle to them both and it was intimated that this statement would not be accepted without full verification. As it stands now, however, it is unlikely there will be other arrests in the alleged plot at least until Fay's latest confession is corroborated.

And speaking of the high cost of living, an editorial writer in the St. Louis Globe wisely observes that "it isn't the per diem expenses but the per night expenses that count up."

Merchants of East St. Louis have started a movement to ask the city council to provide a higher license fee for itinerant merchants and peddlers. The fee for peddlers there is $7.50 a year and the merchants wish it raised to a much larger sum. The position that licensees charged persons from outside who come in to sell clothing, provisions, etc., should be high enough to be almost prohibitive is reasonable. The merchant who pays taxes, has his money invested in a stock of goods and gives employment to a number of persons is certainly entitled to some protection against the traveling merchant. The latter comes into a city only to take something away and makes no contribution to the general welfare.

The Krupp's Beneficence.

There is a lot of irony in the news from abroad that Emperor William has made public his note of thanks to the Krupp Steel company for its donation of $5,000,000 to the relief fund for the benefit of the families of soldiers who have died on the battlefield. The emperor said, "The contribution furnishes new proof of the patriotic mind. It is worthy of the great name of Krupp, whose fame as Germany's first armorer is brightened by this splendid initiative in social welfare and this willingness to make sacrifices."

It history be true, the Krupps have done more to develop the military spirit in Germany than any other agency and in many quarters the charge is made that the Krupp concern has in reality been one of the most direct causes of the present war. Certainly the company has amassed millions because of the conflict now being waged and for this reason, a public expression of thanks to the Krupps from the emperor of Germany has a discordant note.

Senator Weeks Argues for Merchant Marine.

In a recent address before the Academy of Political Science in New York City Senator J. W. Weeks thus sums up his argument in favor of the development of the merchant marine of the United States:

We need (1) a merchant marine for merchantile and naval purposes, (2) we should repeal any legislation which, like portions of the Seaman's bill, militate against its development, (3) we should follow the practice of all other nations, which has resulted in the development of shipping, by giving sufficient aid to

Are you so free from every sin and vice, so pure in thought, so ever-lasting nice, that you dare judge the gentils who misbehave, call one a chump, another one a knave? Is your own record like the driven snow, that at a neighbor you throw? This morn I heard old Jabez Weatherwax rip sundry fellows up their absent backs; one beats his wife, his home with anguish fills, one borrows cash, one doesn't pay his bills, all have their faults, as Weatherwax explained; licentiousness is in their nature grained. And so I said, "O Jabez Weatherwax, a man like you, who high in virtue stacks, a man so wise, a man so truly good, should not permit his wife to saw the woe, to pack in coal, since days are growing cool, to wash the clothes, and labor like a mule. I see her slaving, as I pass your home, while you sit here, your whiskers white with foam, and roast your neighbors till the air is blue—and all of them are better men than you." This brought a round of rapturous applause, and Jabez folded up his safety jaws.

overcome the difference in cost which stands as a handicap against us, (4) such aid should only apply in cases where the operations cannot be conducted profitably, and only continue as long as conditions prevail, such aid being based on the service performed in carrying mails and furnishing ships for auxiliary purpose, (5) any governmental operations which places government-owned and controlled ships in competition with privately-owned and operated ships should not be countenanced. The judgment and experience of experts of all kinds on this subject should be sufficient to deter our taking such a hopelessly fatal step. (6) As the navy needs auxiliaries even more than any other facility, any measure taken to increase its efficiency should give first consideration to, and be influenced by, the development of a merchant marine."

Utility Commissions Great Powers.

Railroads will take courage from the recent ruling of the Missouri utilities commission whereby roads in that state were permitted to increase passenger rates from 2 to 2½ cents a mile, with the condition that mileage books shall be sold at 2 cents per mile. Freight rate increases which average five per cent were also granted. One road fifty-four miles in length was permitted to increase its passenger fare to 3 cents. This grant was allowed after the board had made a physical valuation of the property and had looked over the operating expenses. Some time before the commission had refused to pass upon this proposition, doubting their authority, but the supreme court declared that the commission could if it so desired grant a rate above those fixed by the statutes.

This supreme court ruling gives further indication of the vast powers which are granted to the utility commissions in the several states. The power thus conferred to these bodies if properly used can settle without a court procedure a great many questions to the advantage of the people and with justice to the corporations. It is probably not worth while to dwell upon how great are the possibilities for corruption in missions to which such enormous powers have been delegated.

Mr. Stephenson in Role of Historian.

Doubtless Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin will declare that the book of memoirs by Former Senator Stephenson, also of Wisconsin, represent not truthful history but the rivellings of an old and disappointed man. Mr. Stephenson, who is now 86 years old, has just published the book which sheds a great deal of interesting light on the political history of his state. Incidentally he declares that in the course of a few years he has spent about half a million dollars in the support of Mr. LaFollette and others who developed "the Wisconsin idea," in things political. The writer further charges that the reason Mr. LaFollette joined in trying to have him ousted from the United States senate on the charge of having spent $100,000 in his campaign was because of a refusal to put $250,000 into a campaign fund to exploit LaFollette's presidential aspirations. A further reading of the book also indicates that the coterie of Wisconsin politicians who achieved much prominence and success, founded their success in the first place more largely upon a large campaign fund than they did upon the alleged "great demands" of the people, just as other political movements have done from time immemorial. Anyhow, Mr. Stephenson's book can be safely branded as interesting.

Has Not Lived in Vain.

Booker T. Washington is dead, but his work will live after him, and a great work it was for his race and for the world at large. Booker T. Washington has rightly been classed as the leading negro educator of this country. He founded the famous school which bears his name, near Tuskegee, Ala., and it was at this home there that the end of his life came Sunday. The educator's work was doubly hard because there were so many of his own race who could not see the advantages for them in the program of living and education that he outlined.

Dr. Washington was born in slavery and at the close of the war when emancipation came, was a boy of eight. He early gave evidence of studious temperament and secured a "thoro education. It was in 1881 that he organized the industrial school at Tuskegee and has devoted most of his labor toward the enlargement of that school, which today includes buildings worth half a million dollars. The permanent value of the work can only be measured by time, and it is granted that the advances made among the colored people of the south during the last twenty or thirty year have been largely attributable to this school and the sentiment it created. Dr. Washington has been honored by degrees from several of the greatest universities of this country.

The King of Aurora.

At last the spirit of reform has struck Aurora, and the mayor, who was elected a few months ago there has shown a disposition to rule things which has made some old time politicians "sit up and take notice." It seems that the chief of police there had been in office for 15 or 20 years and had been in the habit of managing affairs just as he pleased without any regard to the mayor. The present chief executive of the city was not satisfied with the way the law was being enforced with reference to saloons, gambling, etc., and took occasion to severely reprimand the chief.

In the disturbance which followed, the mayor "fired" the chief, who appealed to the commissioners and they reinstated him. The mayor then "fired" the commissioners, finding as he claimed that they had not fired their bond in accordance with law and the mayor has given some other indications of his firm intention to rule Aurora in the way he deems best. In an interview recently he revived an expression which was heard in Jacksonville some 15 or 20 years ago when he said, "I am the king of this city and propose to rule it."

Too Much to Expect of Mr. Clark.

A newspaper story credits Edward F. Goltra of St. Louis, Democratic national committeeman, with the statement that President Wilson will not only be re-nominated but that the nominating speech will be made by none other than Champ Clark, speaker of the house. Now one can possibly conceive of Champ Clark "turning the other cheek" to some degree, but it is hard to make the stretch of imagination and think of him standing in a Democratic convention and asking recognition from the chair in order that he may place in nomination the man whom he thinks took away the nomination which really belonged to him in 1912.

Nothing in the speaker's course except a few sentences since that time have given any indication that he has forgotten or forgiven either Mr. Wilson or Mr. Bryan. If he does make that speech it will be either a fine example of party loyalty and of making personal affairs secondary or else the speech will be as "sounding brass."

PAVING WORK ON SOUTH MAIN STREET PROGRESSES.

The west side of the new stretch of pavement on South Main street is almost completed and the tarvia has been laid from Morton avenue to a point beyond the south entrance to Jacksonville state hospital grounds. Workmen were busy yesterday repairing a portion of the curbing near Michigan avenue in preparation for the railroad switch chambers which will be laid there. The season is well advanced for public improvement work but the other half of the pavement can be laid in much less time than was true of the west side. Delays there were occasioned by lack of material. Now the foundation stone and the tarvia in sufficient quantities for the remainder of the work are all here, and in a few weeks' time the job will have been completed. Those who have watched the construction of the new pavement and others who have seen the completed stretch are of the opinion that a satisfactory method of rebuilding the city's worn out pavements has been found.

HAVE LIVED MANY YEARS.

At Ebenezer Sunday school Sunday morning there was an unusual happening when John Erickson who Monday celebrated his 84th birthday and Edmund Blackburn who observed his 82nd birthday Sunday walked to the front of the church to deposit "a penny for every year" in the birthday fund. The contribution, because of their advanced years was quite substantial but that was not the only reason that the incident was important to the school and church. Mr. Blackburn's long residence in the community was mentioned Sunday. Mr. Erickson's life record is even longer and his years have been full of useful work. He has been very successful in business affairs and thus has long ranked as one of the substantial farmers of the county. His life has been such as to entitle him to the highest respect and he has indeed been a valuable citizen. Mr. Erickson now makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. Samuel Bridgeman in the Joy Prairie neighborhood.

ST. LOUIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

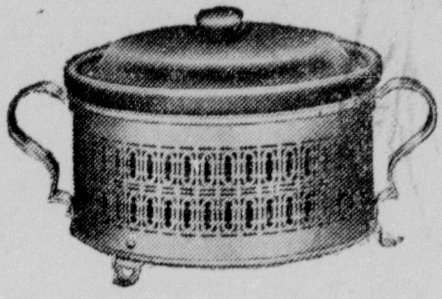

To Assistant Conductor Fischer belongs the duty of conveying instructions, other than rehearsal work, from the conductor to the men, keeping them up to their orchestral duties, seeing that they are at hand when wanted, and other routine matters. The librarian, Arthur Ward, takes care of the music both in its distribution and collection. Fischer is also leader of the bassoon section, and Ward plays in the oboe section.

Ludwig Pleier, first cello and leader of his section, might be said to correspond to a military major. The cello choir is next in importance to the violins, and its leader, therefore, ranks second only to the concert master. Steindel happens to be the youngest member of the St. Louis orchestra, being just past his twenty-second birthday, but he already has an international reputation as a "cellist."

In several of the composition to be given in the concert here at the Grand, Wednesday, Nov. 24th, both Steindel and Oik will have important parts.

Fresh air (just as with a furnace) is drawn in at the sides, heated evenly to several hundred degrees temperature, and discharged—not through the flue and chimney, but through the top of the hot-air chamber into the room. This creates a thorough circulation of hot air that will successfully heat several rooms. Even the upstairs rooms can be heated by the aid of a simple pipe connection.

MEETING, WITH SEVENTY ACCESSIONS ENTERS ITS THIRD AND LAST WEEK

Central Christian Church Revival Gives Large Promise of Successful Continuance—The Sermon Subjects This Week.

With a total of seventy accessions to date and interest increasing nightly, the revival series at Central Christian church which is being conducted by the Rev. John L. Brandt, enters upon its third week with every promise of continued success. Monday evening Rev. Mr. Brandt spoke on "The Face of Jesus" to a crowded auditorium. Tonight the subject will be "A Precious Invitation" and the subjects for the rest of the week follow:

Wednesday—"Christ Seeking the Lost." Thursday—"Dangers of Delay." Friday—"Victories of Christianity."

There were four additions to the church at the Monday night service and at the baptismal service which followed the sermon, eighteen were immersed. The Rev. S. M. Bedford, pastor of the Christian church at Waverly was present and offered prayer. Harry Beckman sang a solo. Immediately after the sermon Rev. Mr. Brandt showed another score of the views from China and a like number will be shown tonight. Pekin was the subject of the group shown Monday evening.

"The noblest creation of God is man," said the speaker. The face reveals the inner man; the man as he really is. In attempting to paint Jesus as a type of his countrymen, artists have succeeded, but ill, as Jesus is the savior of all the nations. No gospel writer gives any account of how Jesus looked.

The speaker told of Jesus' journey to Jerusalem, of the events before the crucifixion and of the crucifixion scene itself. Rev. Mr. Brandt in his travels, once visited the Isle of Patmos in the Mediterranean sea and he recalled the scene when he told of the Apostle John and of the appearance of the Master to him in that place so bold, rocky and barren. In that uninhabited waste was the apostle permitted to look thru the gates and behold the face of his Lord. "There he beheld the face of Jesus, expressing love and sorrow, the face of the glorified Christ."

"I want to see Jesus face to face. I want to see Him when His face will bear the sweet invitation 'Come unto me.'"

Graphic indeed was the description of a Roman court in all its jeweled glory which Rev. Mr. Brandt made Sunday night in narrating the appearance of Paul before Agrippa and keen and unescapable were the personal applications he drew from the speech to the king, who was "almost persuaded."

In what was perhaps the strongest and most dramatic appeal made during the entire series of meetings, the evangelist laid down without deviation eight reasons for accepting Christ:

"We need to have our sins washed away and thus secure adoption into God's family."

"Acceptance of Christ will give men and women the better opportunity to live the best life."

"It gives us the opportunity to serve God."

"It is the only course by which we may be infallibly safe."

"The Christian religion is the only thing that sustains us and gives hope in the time of death."

"We must be Christians if we would stand right in the judgment day."

Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Brandt spoke from the text "Be able to give a reason for the hope that is in you." During the Sunday school hour he spoke to the senior and intermediate departments.

A Lesson from the Past

Years ago, before baking powders were so well known, the housewife sometimes made her own from cream of tartar and soda.

These materials were then comparatively expensive and processes of refining had not been devised to bring them to the high state of purity of the present-day well known cream of tartar baking powders, such as Dr. Price's; and yet she never thought of buying alum, then as now a cheap and inferior substitute for cream of tartar. She wouldn't think of permitting an ounce of alum to enter her kitchen.

Yet housekeepers are to-day asked to buy alum baking powders with which to make food for their children.

The statement on the label affixed to every can naming the ingredients of which the baking powder is composed affords a method of protection against the use of undesirable kinds.

NOTED NEGRO EDUCATOR DIES SUNDAY IN TUSKEGEE HOME

Booker Washington Passes His Last Hours Near Institute, Which He Founded—Illness is Sudden.

Tuskegee, Ala., Nov. 16.—Booker T. Washington, foremost teacher and leader of the negro race, died early Sunday at his home near the Tuskegee Institute of which he was founder and president. Hardening of the arteries following a nervous breakdown caused death four hours after Dr. Washington arrived from New York.

In His Home Four Hours.
Accompanied by his wife, his secretary and a physician, Dr. Washington left New York for Tuskegee at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. He reached home last night and died at 4:40 o'clock Saturday morning. His last appearance was at the national conference of Congregational churches in New York where he delivered a lecture, Oct. 25.

A widow, three children and four grandchildren survive. John H. Washington, a brother, is superintendent of industries at Tuskegee Institute. The funeral will be held at Tuskegee Institute Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock.

Born in Slavery.
Dr. Washington was born in slavery near Hayes Ford, Va., in 1857 or 1858. After the emancipation of his race, he moved with his family to West Virginia. He was an ambitious boy and saved his money for an education. When he was able to get together sufficient money to pay his stage coach fare to Hampton, Va., he entered General Armstrong's school for negroes there and worked his way through an academic course, graduating in 1875 he later became a teacher in the Hampton Institute, where he remained until 1881 when he organized the industrial school for negroes at Tuskegee, to which he devoted most of his attention during the remaining years of his life.

The institute started in a rented shanty and today it owns 3500 acres of land in Alabama and has nearly 100 buildings valued at half a million dollars.

Gains Fame as Author.
Washington won the sympathy and support of leading southerners by a speech in behalf of his race at the Cotton States Exposition at Atlanta in 1895. In addition to his prominence as an educator, he gained considerable fame as an author. An honorary degree of master of Art was conferred upon him by Harvard university in 1896 and in 1901 he was given an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, by Dartmouth college.

Telegrams of condolence on the death of Dr. Washington poured into the institute all day and later into the night from leaders of thought and endeavor in all walks of life.

Some Topics of the Farm

LIVINGSTON COUNTY FARMERS STUDY LAMB FEEDING

(Roy C. Bishop, Livingston County, Agent U. S. Dept. Agriculture.)
Eight farms, where over 3,000 western lambs were being used to consume catch crops and farm wastes were visited Monday by members of the Livingston County Soil and Crop Improvement association. Fairbury, Cullom, Pontiac, Dana, Long Point and Streator districts were represented in the party. Lambs from the poorest to the best quality were seen, being fattened with a number of different kinds of feeds. These lambs came from Idaho, Utah and Texas and there was evidence of many different breeds.

The first farm visited was that of Henry Brinkman, south of Pontiac, where 299 lambs had been fattened. Mr. Brinkman had shipped his lambs on Thursday before the trip, but it was desired to see what feed had been eaten. In addition to 30 acres of new clover in the oat stubble, these lambs had access to a 10 acre corn field. Most of the lower leaves of the corn were eaten and about 20 bushels of corn was eaten off the stalks. When the lambs were turned in the clover was good. At the end of the feeding period the clover was grazed short. About 15 Shetland ponies and other stock were on this clover also. A gain of 14 pounds per head was gotten on the lambs during the feeding period, making a total of 4,364, which in Chicago at $8.75 per hundred, or $366.27. Summing up the most, Mr. Brinkman received $210.00 for his 200 bushels of corn and 30 acres of new clover, which, considering that he paid $9 per net hundred for his lambs, and feed in a very unfavorable season, is very good.

At the J. M. Jacobs farm 345 lambs were inspected. These lambs did well for a time on rape in the corn and on new red clover, but, for some reason, they were not now fattening satisfactorily. Some corn had been eaten in the field, the clover was grazed close, but the rape was still in fair quantity.

A large part of the morning was spent on the John Stried farm, west of Chenoa. Mr. Stried has over 600 prime lambs about ready for the market and these lambs have been prepared entirely on 40 acres of clover in the oat stubble. These lambs have done well from the first and Mr. Stried stands a good show to clear over $1,000 in this feeding operation.

It must be stated, however, that Mr. Stried has been fattening lambs in this way for 6 years in that time, he has acquired many of the characteristics of a successful feeder.

Mr. Stried was kept busy by the inspection party discussing every phase of lamb feeding and in answering pertinent questions for over 1½ hours. He told how he became interested in lamb feeding, where and how he purchased his lambs. He advised as to the size, quality, kind, and number of lambs to purchase, how to start lambs on feed, the kind of feed, length of feeding period, finishing and sale of lambs. He told of his profit and how he figured it and circumstances under which losses may be sustained. He pointed out desirable and undesirable types of lambs. Certainly the information gotten at the Stried farm was complete. It will set a number on their way to add a few hundred dollars a year to their farm income, as Mr. Stried is doing.

On the Chris Becker farm the culls from a flock of 900 lambs were inspected. These were very inferior lambs, most of which were not fattened at all. Mr. Becker has not been successful with his lamb feeding this year. A large number have died and many have not put on a pound of flesh. These lambs are feeding on rape, corn and clover and recently Mr. Becker has begun the feeding of oats and oil meal. Mr. Becker's experience shows that lamb feeding is not always profitable or easy.

On the Charles Richardson farm 710 lambs were seen on 80 acres of rape in the corn. Forty acres of this rape has been eaten to the ground, but Mr. Richardson thinks there is sufficient rape in the other 40 acres, with the aid of corn, to finish the lambs.

A flock of 177 good, small lambs, which were doing fine on rape clover and corn, was seen on the D. B. Reeser farm, 597 Texas lambs on the farm of A. G. Jacobs were of great interest. While these lambs were quite poor when received, only 3 have died and all are looking on feed rapidly. These lambs were purchased cheaply of all that were inspected and have done as good as the best. They promise a handsome profit.

Some Facts Established.
1.—Only prime lively lambs should be purchased by feeders.
2.—It takes a man of wide experience to purchase feeders judiciously or, in other words, profit or loss in lamb feeding is often determined at the time of purchase.
3.—Feeders should co-operate in purchasing.
4.—Half the battle is over when the lambs are successfully started on feed.
5.—Lambs with short legs, bright eyes, full rounded barrel and broad backs are the best feeders.
6.—Lambs can be used to market at a considerable profit, secondary or catch crops like rape, clover and rye; and farm wastes.
7.—It takes only a small amount of capital to feed lambs—this money is not tied up long, the profits are large and quick.
8.—Morning glories and other noxious weeds can be eradicated in lamb feeding.
9.—The first step for a beginner lamb feeder is to get in touch with a large number of feeders and learn how they do it.

10.—The Livingston County Soil and Crop Improvement association can help you get facts concerning lamb feeding and larger profits on the farm if you will attend its field demonstrations, its short courses and co-operate in its activities.

SCOTT COUNTY FARMERS WILL MEET AT BLUFFS

Good Program Arranged for Two-days Discussion—Farmer Who Secures Biggest Yields on Large Area, Will Talk—Women's Problems Feature of Meeting.

The annual session of the Scott County Farmers' Institute will convene in Bluffs, Friday morning, Nov. 19 and the Farmers of Scott County Cooperating with Household Science Clubs Business Men of Bluffs and the State Farmers' Institute, have arranged a program for a two-days meeting in the Lewis Opera House and the M. P. church, such as has never been excelled in any county in the state.

The farmers and other business men and women of this state have come to the conclusion that the most important question before them is neither the "tariff," the "trusts" nor the "eight hour day," but that it is the problem of supplying our ninety millions of people with food and doing it in such a way that next year they can supply a still greater number from the acreage under cultivation. To continue to do this from year to year while at the same time the fertility of the land is increased instead of depleted, homes are made comfortable, health better conserved and community interests being solved, by cooperation of this kind.

It was with a view to securing information about how other communities are handling these problems successfully that this meeting was planned and that the most successful farmers of large areas have been secured at large expense, to tell us about their methods. If Frank J. Mann makes 40 acres of Illinois land produce 50 bushels of wheat per acre last year, 62 1-2 bushels per acre this year, and if he secures an average of 86 bushels of corn per acre from 150 acres for a period of 10 years while his profits have increased and his land has become richer each year, he must have a system that we ought to know about, so he has agreed to come and "talk it out" with us.

Everybody now knows that plants as well as animals must be fed. H. C. McCarrel, successful farmer, feeder, and neighbor from Pike county, will open the discussion Friday morning.

Mr. Pervier, who has successfully fought the swine plague for forty years and is a most successful cattle feeder, is coming to tell his experience and that of other men of his community.

Everybody wants good roads at a minimum of expense. H. B. Peipmeier, a highway engineer and an advocate of oiled roads, is coming to place some surprising facts before us along this line.
Mrs. Lena S. Mann, expert demonstrator, farmer's wife, mother and homemaker, will lecture and demonstrate.

Mrs. H. A. McKeene, secretary and field worker of the department of household science, will lend inspiration by telling us some of the things that are being accomplished by the 450 organizations of the department.

Dr. E. B. Rogers, lecturer of national reputation will give his "Living or a Life" lecture, Friday evening and every chair in the opera house ought to be filled by 7:30 o'clock sharp. Mr. Rogers leaves Illinois for the East for a tour with a lyceum bureau, immediately after the lecture and we may never have another chance to hear him.

Information may be secured from these meetings in a few hours that has cost much time and money, and taken years to develop. It is free to all, and farmers, business men, professional men, women and children are welcome to have a part in it.

Refreshments will be served gratuitously Saturday. Remember the place and dates—Bluffs, Ill., Friday and Saturday, Nov. 19 and 20th.

James McCormick of Woodson precinct has been a successful small grain producer this year. He has 38 acres of smooth, soft winter wheat which he threshed from the shock and had about 37½ bushels to the acre and a good sample. He had a fine crop of oats from twenty acres that produced about 1,100 bushels. They were of the white variety and also were fine. That crop he stacked and was well repaid for his trouble. He had 64 acres of corn of the Funk's White variety, a very good sample also and he is now plying well along in husking. His corn will yield right at 65 bushels to the acre and of good quality. Mr. McCormick is an up to date farmer and believes in thorough cultivation. He uses a six shovel cultivator and a disc keeping the surface of the ground stirred and not interfering with the roots.

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 15.—Jean Duluth Pear, of a local farm, has established a new world's record for Red Poll cattle in the 1915 club contest by scoring more than 700 pounds of butter fat in one season. THE BEST TIME TO SELL THE FARMER'S CROPS

Big Question Discussed in Pamphlet Issued by Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station.

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 15.—"When is the best time to sell my crop? Will I make more by holding my grain, expecting later a price which will more than compensate for the shrinkage which will occur during the intervening period, or will it be more profitable to sell my corn from the field and my small grain from the threshing machine?" These are the constantly appearing questions that W. L. Burlison and O. M. Allen of the Corn Production Division of the University of Illinois have discussed in a pamphlet known as Bulletin 183, that will be issued this week from the Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station.

In the handling of farm grain, especially corn, shrinkage plays an important role and the shrinkage factor should always be considered when the producer is holding his grains for higher prices, according to the bulletin.

The facts relating to the problem, as far as they are available, have been collected and the conclusions drawn are based upon sound reasoning and upon scientific data covering a series of years, the bulletin states.

Following is a statement of the conclusion of Messrs. Burlison and Allen:
"Prices of farm crops in general are regulated by commercial market quotations, which in turn are governed by supply and demand."

"The increase in prices of crops within the last few decades has not been so great as many people have believed. By comparison the average prices for the fifteen years preceding the financial crisis of 1894 to 1898 with the average prices for the fifteen years succeeding this period, it will be seen that the average increase has been only 9.2 cents per bushel for corn and 6.5 cents for oats, while the average price for wheat has not increased. The price for barley has tended to decrease, while the price for rye has increased about the same as that for corn."

"In general, for the last thirty years, the times of lowest average price for corn, wheat and oats correspond closely to the times of largest average receipts. Except during the summer months, the same is true for rye and also for barley during the last ten years."

"Shrinkage is one of the most important factors to be taken into consideration in holding corn for higher prices. The total shrinkage during the year is more than 10 per cent. Taking November as a base, the data show that there is no month for which the price increases sufficiently for shrinkage. If January or February is taken as a base, then the increase in price, up to, but not including October more than, compensate for shrinkage alone."

"Not so much is known of the shrinkage of wheat and oats as of corn. It may be said that they shrink comparatively little after they have gone through the sweat. It would seem profitable, so far as shrinkage alone is concerned, to hold small grain until the time of highest prices."

Alden Sorrells on the farm of Samuel Henry near Woodson has forty acres of corn of the Reid Yellow Dent variety. One singular fact he reports. In some places the corn was somewhat lodged. He got into a patch of that kind and without moving out of his tracks he husked twenty-five ears of corn, all good and solid ones too. This is a remarkable record. The hills generally had three stalks each and were well matured. The crop will yield about 65 bushels to the acre and Mr. Sorrells has already cribbed some 1100 bushels and is going ahead with the rest of the field. The corn is well ripened and will shell at once. The land is the second year out of sod and a good quality. The corn was planted about the fifth of May, cultivated four times and is in good condition.

GIRLS IN BAD HEALTH.
Hundreds of girls go to work day after day, afflicted with some ailment peculiar to their sex, dragging one foot wearily after the other, working always with one eye on the clock and wishing for closing time to come. Every such girl should rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore her to a normal healthy condition, then work will be a pleasure. For forty years this famous root and herb medicine has been pre-eminently successful in controlling the diseases of women. Why don't you try it?—Adv.

Despite the cold weather golf continues to be an attraction at Nichols park and much has been said regarding greater facilities for the game. The disposition of the park board is to foster all reasonable enterprises which tend to the welfare and entertainment of the people, the only question being that of finance, and the board has to decide what should have attention and what should wait. Sometime in the near future those interested in the game will be invited to meet with the park board when the matter may be fairly discussed.

HAVE ARRANGED FOR EXCHANGE MEETINGS

The Christian church at Litterberry have arranged an exchange of meetings with a pastor in Indiana. The meetings will begin about the middle of January, 1916.

W. F. Hole, pastor-evangelist, who has been pastor at Pine Village Ind., for a number of years is a successful evangelist. The chief concern in most revival meetings is to make disciples, but as the word revival suggests will put stress on teaching the church the "way more perfectly."

The need of the hour is for more who like "Peter and John" by their manner of life will compel those with whom they come in contact in daily life to "take knowledge of them, that they have been with Jesus" and to be "ready always to give an answer to every man that asked a reason concerning the hope."

H. C. Napier of Grigsville was here Monday attending to business.

GIRLS! HAVE WAVY, THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Save Your Hair! Double its Beauty in a Few Moments—Try This

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and in ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?—Adv.

ORVILLE WRIGHT TO QUIT THE WORKSHOP

Aeroplane Inventor Will Devote Life to Research Work.

Dayton, O.—Orville Wright, the aeroplane inventor and manufacturer, is to devote his life to research work, giving up his business interests.

The inventor for years has had the ambition to develop and amplify his research work, but since the death of his brother Wilbur several years ago his time has been taken up almost entirely by the management of his business and patent litigation. In the last week two offers have been made for the Wright holdings here, but without success.

Mr. Wright refused to make public any offers he has received, but Dayton bankers say substantial sums and credits were concerned.

"I cannot say now how soon this change will come about or give any details of how or why it will be made," said Mr. Wright.

It is said Mr. Wright's health is poor and he is in a nervous condition. Confronted with this as a possible motive for selling the plant, he still refused to reveal his intentions further.

"I never was interested especially in the business end of it," said Mr. Wright. "I am not averse to making money from it. But that is not what I am striving for."

"My patent litigation is going favorably, both in the United States and abroad. The court of appeals has sustained the decision of lower courts in every instance, and there is a little further work along those lines."

"I have not gone into the war game as other aeroplane manufacturers have. The trouble has been in getting a high powered aeroplane motor that is reliable. They are pretty delicate things, but I am working on a new 120 horsepower engine which I have not put on the market."

Concerning the New York newspaper story in which it was said the German government held an option on the Wright plant, Mr. Wright had an explanation to make.

"The story is an untruth. I know that it was based merely on a suggestion that the German government get an option on this company. Some one thought it would be a good scheme for the Germans to buy the Wright company and prevent other countries from getting any machines. A letter to that effect was written to the German consul at New York, and from that source the story emanated."

Bees Rout Workers.

Hammond, Ind.—The icing gang in the Indiana harbor belt yards at Riverdale was driven from the Pacific fruit express by bees, and the train was held up on the way to New York. The swarm had "homed" in the lining of a refrigerator car. The bees could not be dislodged and went on with the train.

MAY IRWIN BACKS WILSON.

Wants Cabinet Post to Launch His De-tractors Out of Court.

New York—May Irwin fills no position in President Wilson's cabinet, which precludes her reprimanding those she thinks talk too much, but as a suffragist who campaigned ardently for the president she feels privileged to stand up for him. So she sent a letter, to President Wilson which said, among other things:

"In these times, when our beloved country is facing the most crucial problems of its history, you have shown yourself as great a patriot and statesman as ever held the executive office. "But as usual there are some agitators and self seekers who for the sake of notoriety are attempting to handicap the work of the president, even to the extent of hurling this nation into the bloodiest war of all history. I am only a humble almost citizen, but I think it the duty of every woman, child or man to encourage you with a direct approval of your course; hence this letter."

"I would like to see a new department added to the government, to be known as the department of laughter. The function of it should be to laugh out of court these fools and self seekers, these pests and jingoes who are trying to annoy you in your work. The rulers of old had their Sir Motleys and jesters for just such a purpose. I respectfully apply for the portfolio of this department on the supposition that I know a good laugh when I see one."

Up to the hour of going to press the good submarine Oyster Bay had not even shown its periscope preparatory to firing an answering broadside.

FEW LEFT IN SHAKERTOWN.

Only Four Remain in Wealthy Kentucky Settlement.

Lexington, Ky.—Four elderly and infirm persons are the only occupants of the immensely valuable Shaker settlement, one of the few remaining colonies of the sect, near here. Sisters Christine Johnson, eighty-four, and Martha Olson, eighty-seven, died one day recently within the hour.

Shakertown, now so sparsely settled, once was a flourishing town, with manufacturing and various business enterprises and controlling rich adjacent farm lands.

Even now the property is valued at millions. Recently a trustee was appointed to manage the affairs of the colonists.

EARLY FOOTBALL.

It Was Crude Sport as Originally Played in This Country.

THE FIRST GAME AT HARVARD.

All the Members of the Two Lower Classes Were in It, and It Was More of a Free Fight Than a Ball Match. Death and Resurrection of the Game.

Football was played in American colleges as early as 1800. The teams were made up from all the students who happened to be on hand. The object of each side was to drive the ball across a given line. The players could not carry the ball in their hands, but had to kick it.

In the year 1845 the first football game at Harvard was played on the Delta, a small triangular piece of ground. The contest was between all the members of the two lower classes and proved not so much a football game as a fight. When, in 1860, the faculty forbade that sort of contest the students held a solemn burial service over the football. Over the grave they erected a tablet that bore the following inscription:

His Jacet
Football Fightum
Obit July 2, 1861
Aet. LX Years
Resurgat

And in twelve years football "resurrected," when, in 1872, the class of '74 played the class of '75 on Boston common.

Oddly enough, the history of the game at Yale was much the same as it was at Harvard. The sport, which had been abolished there in 1860, came to life again in 1872, when the Yale Football association was founded and a game was played with Columbia.

In 1869 Princeton and Rutgers played the first intercollegiate game in America. It was not until 1872 that Oxford and Cambridge, in England, arranged a contest.

In the game played at Harvard before 1874 there were no goal posts. To make a goal one side had to strike or kick the ball on the fly over the end line of the field. If the opposing side caught it no goal resulted. A "harker" or offside player could not kick the ball. A player could not run with it unless he was chased by an opponent, but could strike it or kick it. The ball was made of black rubber cloth inflated into a sphere.

In the spring of 1874 the students at McGill university in Montreal, Canada, came to Cambridge to play Harvard university a game of Rugby football.

According to the Rugby rules, a player could run with the ball and any opponent could tackle him. A goal was scored when one side kicked the ball over the goal posts. A score was also made by a touchdown when a player carried the ball behind the opponent's goal line and there touched it to the ground.

The Canadians had forgotten to bring the oval pilskin football that is used in Rugby, and that first game of Rugby in America was played with an Indian rubber football. Perhaps that accounted for the fact that the pupils were able to defeat the teachers.

All Harvard took interest in the new game. Football enthusiasts quickly realized that the old American game did not have the possibilities for development that Rugby had. During the spring and fall the Harvard team practiced diligently and in October went to Montreal to play a return game with McGill. Posters and window cards advertised the game throughout the city, and a crowd of 2,000 spectators was attracted to the field.

The McGill players wore red and black striped jerseys, stockings and white knickerbockers. The Harvard players wore magenta handkerchiefs and jerseys and old tweed trousers. Neither team had any protective padding.

The Boston Advertiser of Oct. 25, 1874, gives the following account of the game:

"The game was called at 3:30, and at 5 Harvard was declared the winner, having secured three touchdowns. In response to the 'tiger' of the McGills, the Harvard 'rahs' were delivered with a vim, and every stranger on the field seemed much astonished at the style of the cheer, many being disposed to think it a joke. The small boys yelled for another, and a second was given for the umpire. The Victoria band then managed to get through 'Yankee Doodle' quite respectably."—John T. Wheelwright in Youth's Companion.

Don't Get Their Share.

Washington statistics show the per capita consumption of salt in this country is nearly 100 pounds a year; but, judging from the number of fresh chaps one meets, there must be many who aren't consuming their full share. —Milwaukee Sentinel.

HAMS OF WESTPHALIA.

Processes by Which They Are Cured and Flavored.

The famous Westphalian hams, which are eaten without cooking, are cured by an elaborate process that has been worked out patiently and skillfully by generations of expert workmen.
A writer in the New York Sun thus describes the process:

After being rubbed thoroughly with a solution in which there are 100 pounds of salt to one pound of salt-petre, the hams are placed on cement floors, or in vats, and thickly strewn with salt. They lie under salt for two weeks and then pass to a vat that contains a 22 per cent solution of brine.
They remain in that solution for eight-teen days. Every day they are shifted in the vat; the hams on the bottom are brought to the top, and vice versa.

At the end of the eighteen days the hams are packed, one upon another, in a cool, dry cellar, where they remain for four weeks, in order to ripen —that is, to take on color and become tender. Then the salt is washed off with a stiff brush dipped in lukewarm water, and the hams are put to soak for twelve hours in fresh water. After that they are ready for the smokehouse.

The smokehouses are two or three stories high, with holes bored in the flooring. The fires are kindled on the ground floor, and the meat is hung on the second and third floors. The fires are made entirely of beech wood, but the workmen constantly throw juniper berries and juniper twigs on the embers. The fire burns brightly. It is checked with beech wood sawdust whenever it burns too briskly.

The smoking continues for about eight days. Under the ancient curing methods, however, the hams were often kept in the smoke rooms for six weeks, and it is by this latter method that the best hams are still made by the country folk of Westphalia.

WHAT A MAN READS.

It is a Big Factor in Determining His Course of Life.

A certain low form of aquatic animal life anchors itself to a rock and feeds on whatever the current brings.
The average man feeds his mind in much the same way. He falls into line for current amusements. He reads only current literature. He listens to what happens to go by. He makes but little systematic attempt to shut out the unfit or to put himself in line for the fit.

The result is a defective grade of human life that rarely elevates society and often degrades it. If a man would make the most of himself, and that is manifestly the supreme purpose for which he was put into the world, it is worth his while to do his daily work where unclean things, mental and physical, are not made common.

It makes a good deal of difference in the worth of the man today as to whether his reading last night was "Hamlet" or "Isalab" or "The Other Man's Wife," whether he went to the art institute or the burlesque show.
An ancient teacher of well balanced mind gave this direction to his disciples as to the topics to be selected for deliberate thought:

"Finally, my brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things."

To think on these things one must see and hear these things. To see and hear these things one must make an effort to do so.—Minneapolis Journal.

Sunlight and Vegetation.

The early rays of the sun exercise a more powerful effect in promoting rapid vegetation than the sun's light during the later hours of the day. The active little chlorophyll grains work faster and better in elaborating food for the plant under the action of the blue and yellow rays of the early morning than under the later violet and blue rays. Practical gardeners should make use of this fact by growing early produce as far as possible in a position where the plants will get the full benefit of the morning sun.—

THE UNDOING OF A SCHEMER

Plot to Gain a Fortune Fails of Its Purpose.

In a handsome city residence a few people were assembling to listen to the reading of the will of the recently deceased owner of the property and a considerable fortune besides. The widow and her son, twenty-five years old, the issue of a former marriage, entered, followed by a girl of nineteen, the daughter of the testator. The elder woman was dressed in deepest mourning. Her son wore as somber garments as his mother, his studs and sleeve buttons even being black. So deep was the grief of the stepdaughter that she seemed unconscious of what she wore. A few relatives of the deceased followed these principal mourners, the family lawyer bringing up the rear. When all were seated he unfolded the will and read:

"I, Henry Arthur Gifford, being of sound mind and body, declare this to be my last will and testament. I bequeath all my property, real and personal, to my beloved wife, Elizabeth Gifford, in perfect confidence that she will make suitable provision for my daughter, Anna Louise Gifford."

"This will," remarked the lawyer,
"was made two years ago, and it does not appear that any other has been made since. There are no codicils."

The more distant relatives looked disappointed. The widow, turning to her stepdaughter, said:

"Anna, dear, I protested against this leaving your interest in the estate in my hands, but your father would have it so, being more willing to trust it to my more experienced management than to a girl with no head for business. Be assured, my dear daughter, that I will take the best of care of it."

It seemed to those present that if there was any case wherein a stepmother should be thus honored with confidence it was this. The girl made no reply. She allowed herself to be kissed by her stepbrother and his mother. Then the three were about to rise to go out when they heard a voice from behind, at which the widow started. In it she recognized her husband's bosom friend.

"I have to offer a later will."
The brief announcement had a withering effect upon the widow. She caught at the arm of the chair, from which she had partly risen.

"There is no later will," she said.
"If you have one it is a forgery."

The man advanced and handed a paper he carried in his hand to the lawyer, who took it, scrutinized it and, after a careful examination of the signature, said:

"This instrument is properly drawn, bearing date only a few days before the testator's death. I am well acquainted with his signature and consider it genuine."

"Read it!" gasped the widow.
"I will read it," said the man who had offered it, and he proceeded to do so. After the usual preliminaries the document continued:

"At the death of my late beloved first wife I married, for companionship and for a mother for my little daughter, a woman who from the day of the ceremony bent her indomitable will to the work of getting my property for herself and her son. She possessed the ability to control both myself and my daughter. To the world we were a singularly united family.
In our home my child and I lived as if under the spell of witchcraft. My wife brought me to the verge of nervous prostration, then demanded that I should make a will at her dictation. I refused, whereupon she brought me to the verge of lunacy, and I yielded. I made the will she wished that I might escape her persecutions and having in view this revenge. I am aware that my action stamps me for a weak man, but I am convinced that no man can stand against the cruelty of a woman whom he cannot get rid of."

Then followed a bequest of the bulk of his property to his daughter, a few small legacies being left to other relatives. In this connection the widow and her son were not mentioned. The document concluded as follows: "I direct that my daughter shall from the opening of this will be under the care of my lifelong friend, Robert Rivard, who is hereby appointed her guardian and who has promised to make her a member of his family."

During the reading the expression on the face of Mrs. Gifford was that of a disappointed fury. She had lived since the first will was made in the fear that her husband might make another, but had been confident that the watch she had set upon him was effective. At the conclusion of the reading she arose and walked out of the room without a word, her son following.

While Anna Gifford never thoroughly recovered from the loss of her father, with whom she had suffered so many years of torture, she did recover from the persecution of some seventeen years. No one ever dared blame her father in her presence for not having protected her from her stepmother. This she always stoutly maintained was impossible, since he could not even protect himself, nor did she condemn him for taking his revenge, screened behind the grave.

Anna Gifford married and became the mother of children. She did not exact a promise from her husband that if she died before him he would not marry, but she made a will leaving her property as she wished it to be distributed.

MYSTERY IN JUDGES AFFAIRS

Chicago, Nov. 15.—The hearing of the petition for a conservator of the estate of Anna N. Waterman, former judge of the Circuit Court, is set for today in the Probate Court, and the mystery of the judge's seclusion in a sanatorium in Massachusetts will be cleared up.

Mrs. Rosalie B. Grisold, a relative of Judge Waterman's deceased wife, charged in a bill filed last July that the 79 year old jurist was under "undue influence" exercised by Carleton Hudson, an associate. The Judge failed to appear in court, and it was later learned that he was in a sanitarium at Stoneham, Mass. A reporter who called at the sanitarium was told by the manager that no one was to see the judge, because of the orders of Carleton Hudson; that no messages were to be taken to him, and all inquiries were to remain unanswered.

Hudson has stated that as an old friend and former partner of Judge Waterman, he is looking after his interests.

THAT SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Editor Journal:

The report the other day of Mr.
Jeffries' success in organizing a symphony orchestra in Pittsfield, Illinois, was concluded with the pertinent query: Why should we not have such an orchestra in Jacksonville?

Why should we not, indeed? Since then, I have scanned the papers daily awaiting the reply from somebody.
But none came. The query, I take it, comes from Mr. Jeffries himself, who ought to know, and probably could guess, whether or not the thing would be practicable here.

Now I don't want to go on record as simply discouraging any worthy project, much less one pertaining to music or art. But having been a member of a committee appointed some years ago to take the preliminary steps toward organizing such an orchestra, I feel as if I could speak with some authority. My answer to the query would be that such an orchestra is not practicable here in Jacksonville—for the following and more reasons.

First: There is no money in it—except for the director or the contractor. And as the majority of the best musicians of the city belong to what we call the working class, their time is valuable, and must be spent to a practical advantage. Would you expect the orchestra to be more of a financial success than the band?

Second: The musicians of Jacksonville are not a perfectly congenial lot. The sad condition may be due to several causes, viz., competition, unions, rival schools, etc. But even a little friction in such an organization would be like the "worm" in the ball.

Third: The orchestra would not be any better patronized than the band.
There are too many things going on here. Our people hear too much extra music now. Every college and every school has an orchestra of its own. There is a surfeit of such music, and few painstaking enough to discriminate.

Fourth: There is probably no person here qualified to direct such an orchestra. Good band leaders we have, several of them. But band leaders are generally poor "string" men, and the tonal results might only justify comparison with the effect when the bull was turned loose in the china shop.

That Mr. Jeffries will make a success of his orchestra in Pittsfield, I haven't the least doubt. An outside director, in fine, is the only one who could maintain such an orchestra here, and command the respect of the musicians and the confidence of the patrons. Otherwise, unless it went abroad for patronage—make tours, that is, like the chautauqua business of the band—such an orchestra is not at all practicable here, in the estimation of the writer.

PEORIA WOMAN TELLS EXPERIENCE

Mrs. W. L. McClellan, of Peoria, suffered torture from indigestion, gas, belching and other symptoms of stomach trouble. She spent large sums of money for doctors' advice and medicine. Still her condition did not improve. She found relief, wonderful, surprising relief in a drug store window. This is her story, as she tells it:

"I suffered so from distention and colicky pains that at times I was completely incapacitated for my household work. I saw a window display of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and decided to purchase a bottle, which I did. I have taken only one bottle and the results have been really wonderful. I have not had a pain in my stomach since, and let me say that for the first time in many, many months, two days following I have had a natural movement of the bowels. I feel I cannot say enough for the remarkable virtues of your remedy."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR LATE DR. W. C. DAY

After Exercises at White Hall Body Was Taken to St. Louis Where Cremation Took Place—Sketch of His Life.

In accordance with the wishes of Dr. W. C. Day, brief funeral services were held at his late home in White Hall at 10:30 Monday morning. Dr. H. W. Foreman of White Hall made a short address, and a beautiful tribute, written by Dr. A. T. Bartlett of Jacksonville, a lifelong friend, was read by Mr. W. L. Winn.

The remains, accompanied by the family and W. W. Gillham, were then taken to St. Louis where cremation took place Monday afternoon.

The bearers were Alonzo Ellis, Henry Porter, John Crabtree, G. R. Adams, Mark Lowenstein, all of White Hall, and Dr. M. L. McDonough of Winchester.

Obituary.

Dr. William C. Day was born in Hopefield, Ark., January 24, 1837 and died at his home in White Hall, Ill., Saturday, Nov. 13th, at 6:15 p. m., aged 78 years, 10 months and 20 days.

When he was three years old his father removed to southwest Missouri where he was reared and received his literary education.

While still young he in some way caught the inspiration for a higher life than that which prevailed within his environment and began to work for its attainment, notwithstanding the multitude of disadvantages and discouragements which confronted him. After obtaining a thorough literary education as circumstances would admit of, he took up medicine and with the aid of a few friends pursued this study with a zeal and industry that were truly commendable. He graduated from the Missouri Medical college in the spring of 1861, and received the Ad Bunden degree in medicine from the St. Louis Medical college in 1871. In 1880 he took the post graduate course from the Chicago Medical college and in 1892 an advanced course for practitioners at the New York Polyclinic Medical college and hospital.

On June 20, 1862 he enlisted in the Missouri State Militia, 14th Regiment, remaining in the same until March 3rd, 1863, when he received his commission as Assistant Surgeon of the 4th Missouri Cavalry, remaining until May 20, 1865. He was a member of Culver Post No. 512, G. A. R. of White Hall, Ill.

He was the author of many scientific papers on medical and other topics. He was a member of the Illinois State Medical society and the Green County Medical society. He held the chair of Professor of Obstetrics in the Barnes Medical College of St. Louis since 1892.

He first practiced medicine in Palmyra, Ill., where he was married to Miss Letitia Allmond in 1866. To that union were born four children, Dr. L. R. Day, Winchester, Dr. J. A. Day, Jacksonville, Mrs. Annie Mayes who died in 1900, and Miss Gertrude Day, of White Hall. In 1874 he moved to Greenfield, Ill., where in 1879 his wife died. Later he was married to Miss Bessie Harris of Greenfield, who died in November, 1909.

In 1880 he moved to Winchester, Ill., where he practiced until 1905 when he retired and moved to White Hall, Ill. where he continued his residence until his death.

Dr. Day had been in poor health for about ten years but his last illness was of but a few days duration. He is survived by two sons, one daughter and five grandsons.

Dr. Day was a man of high ideals, by nature a student and a thinker. He had positive views and did not lack the courage to express and defend them. He was a firm believer in God and an ardent admirer of His handiwork as portrayed in nature, and he was loyal to friends and to his profession.

TEMPERATURES AND TEMPER

The Latter Depend Upon the First More Than Most People Believe or Know—Some Scientific Helps About Various Household Thermometers.

HOW often does the housewife consider the many kinds of temperature measurement which are really found in the home? Some one once said that only in a greenhouse and in a candy factory was temperature recognized as an important factor. But if we stop a moment to think we will see that there are a number of places where temperature affects even the family most decidedly.

First, the measurement of humidity. How much moisture is in the air of the home? It is an excess of dry air in many houses, so doctors tell us, that causes throat disease, colds, etc. To measure the humidity some type of hygrometer can be used. This will give fairly exact reading of the amount of moisture in the home atmosphere.

Again, at what temperature should a refrigerator be kept? Does every one know it should lie between 45 and 55 degrees F. in order to keep the food supplies in proper condition? A simple thermometer would give this reading and would perhaps save many a sanitary situation.

Those who do much cooking with sugar know that no one product is so standardized in its relation to temperature. There is indeed a specific temperature for distinct stages of sugar cooking. Plain sirup, taffy, brittle, soft ball, these all have their specific temperatures, as 236 for fondant or 315 for brittle. Cooking with sugar, especially in preserving and candy making, presupposes an accurate knowledge of temperatures.

While many of the best cooks just guess at the heat of the oven or test it by putting in a paper, there is no reason why an oven and cooking cannot have distinct temperature measurements. There are indeed quite definite points for certain kinds of cooking as: Biscuit and pastry, 450 to 500 F. Rolls, biscuits and muffins, 400 to 450 F. Cake, bread, cookies, 350 to 400 F. Custards and puddings, 250 to 350 F. The use of an oven thermometer will undoubtedly result in more accurate cooking and reduce the danger of scorching or underdone foods.

Possibly the knowledge of this temperature fact would influence the quantity of coal bought. That is, in a separate house with the winter temperature about 45 degrees each room in the house requires one long ton of coal (2,240 pounds) per season.

The temperature at which foods boil and cook is also important, especially the point at which fats are ready for use. A knowledge of the effect of low and high temperatures on food products will greatly influence the quality of the cooking. In fact, temperature cannot be overlooked in the home.

FOR THE JUVENILE

LAND O'NOD STORIES

Billy Be By Bo Bum kept a tight hold of Tinker's hand as they entered the tunnel leading down into the ants' underground city, for to tell the truth he was just a little bit frightened, for everything was so strange and new.

At first the passage was as dark as the inside of a pocket, but as his eyes became accustomed to the dusk, he was able to see without any trouble.

The sentinel ants that were guiding Billy and the merry little elf to the palace of the queen trotted along in front of them as Billy had to run to keep up with them, and although the soldiers did their best to clear the way for the visitors, more than once Billy bumped smack into a worker hurrying up to the gate on its way to the harvest fields.

The tunnel led down and down and down until it seemed to Billy that they must be going right thru to China. Then at last the passage widened out into a big, high room several hundred feet long and about half as wide, at least it seemed that large when you compare the size of an ant to the size of a man. It was almost completely filled with piles of wheat, oats and other kinds of grain and seeds.

"This is one of the storerooms where the ants keep their winter's supply of food," said Tinker. "There are many more vaults like this, some of them, far, far down below the surface of the earth. Before Jack Frost comes and freezes everything with his icy breathe, every storehouse will be filled with grain."

"I don't see where they get it all," said Billy, stopping a minute to look up at the great mountain of grain, which nearly touched the roof of the chamber.

"Why Billy Boy, where are your eyes," replied Tinker. "As we came along the road the ants built from the harvest fields, don't you remember that every ant we passed on its way was carrying something in its jaws, either a seed of some kind or a crumb of the cookie you dropped

JUDGE THOMSON DENIES PETITION IN HAXTON CASE

Attorney for Defendant Tries to Secure Her Release on the Ground of Ill Health.

In the county court Monday morning the case of Kate Haxton came up before Judge William E. Thomson. Attorney H. P. Samuel, who is attorney for Mrs. Haxton, endeavored to secure her release from jail because of ill health. The case was hotly contested between Mr. Samuel and States Attorney Tilton and City Attorney Reeve. After hearing the evidence Judge Thomson said that he would deny the petition. The court said that while it had been shown that Mrs. Haxton was not in the best of health it had not been shown that her health would be materially improved by being released from jail. Mr. Samuel made a hard fight for his client and cited supreme court decisions.

Dr. George H. Stacy and Dr. W. H. Weirich were on the stand and testified as to Mrs. Haxton's physical condition. Dr. Stacy was called as an expert by Dr. Weirich, who is county physician. Dr. Stacy testified at some length. He told of tests made for tuberculosis and also stated that Mrs. Haxton's condition was generally poor. Dr. Weirich corroborated the testimony of Dr. Stacy. Mrs. Haxton also went on the stand.

The case was followed with a great deal of interest and quite a number of spectators were present. Among them being Mrs. James H. Danskin, Mrs. T. H. Agnew, Mrs. C. E. Collins, Miss Emma Weller, Mrs. H. C. Robinson and Mrs. Arthur Vannier. In addition to City Attorney Reeve, Mayor H. J. Rodgers, Commissioner W. F. Widmayer and Chief of Police George P. Davis were present.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mahoney of Springfield visited Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Thomas Duffner and family of this city.

With a view to giving those who have not yet used this excellent remedy an opportunity of trying it in the treatment of all Bronchial affections, including Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Whooping Cough, Severe Coughs, Croup and Hoarseness; to prove its merits, all persons applying are thus given a chance to obtain a regular 50c bottle for 25c by presenting the coupon below. Even though not in need of such medicine at the present time, it will pay to buy now, as some such medicine is sure to be required before the winter is over, but this remedy cannot be obtained at half price again.

This excellent new remedy is sufficiently concentrated so that 2 ounces, when mixed at home with simply one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water (according to printed directions) makes a whole family supply (128 teaspoonfuls) as much as would ordinarily cost $2 to $3 for the same quantity of the old, ordinary, ready-made kinds of cough medicine, of doubtful merit and without a guarantee. It is prepared from strictly harmless plants, contains absolutely no chloroform, opium, morphine or any other narcotic or injurious drugs as do most Cough Remedies, and can therefore be given to children with perfect safety. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. Besides, absolutely no risk whatever is run buying this remedy, as M. E. Gilbert will refund your 25c just the same as with Dr. Schiffmann's famous Asthmador, if it is not found the very best remedy ever used. If a neighbor or friend could be induced to divide and pay for half the quantity, the cost would thus only be about 12c to each.

Twenty-five Cent Coupon—No. 1.

This coupon and 25c is good for one (only) 50c bottle of Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectorant at M. E. Gilbert's Drug Store, if your name and address is filled in.

WORLD'S MARKET NEWS

FOREIGNERS BUYING FUTURE DELIVERIES LIFTS WHEAT PRICE

Market Closes Nervous 1 to 1½ Cents Net Higher—Other Leading Staples How Losses.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Foreigners buying future deliveries had a bullish influence today on wheat. The market closed nervous but 1½ to 1½¢ higher, with December at $1.00½ and May at $1.07½. Other leading staples all showed a loss—corn a shade to ½¢, oats ½¢ to ¾¢ and provisions ¾¢ to 25¢.

Selling on account of the increase in the United States visible supply total led at one time to a decided bearish reaction of the wheat market. The fact, however, that the enlargement of the total was not so pronounced as had been expected by many traders caused considerable short covering later and left the market in the end at the top prices of the day.

In corn the prospect that central Illinois would show a big movement of the crop this week and next was too much of a handicap for the bulls. It was said also that the country was selling freely, influenced by the clear, cold weather auspicious for curing corn. Oats felt to some extent the effect of liberal receipts. The stock here, tho, is still far below last year's total at the corresponding time.

Provisions were depressed by a sharp break in the value of hogs. Packers gave the market some support but not until after a material decline.

Bruno Gatten Pastor of Church.The rededication and annual missionfest of the St. Peter's Lutheran church, located 2 1/2 miles northwest of Arezville, took place Sunday.
The morning, afternoon and evening exercises were largely attended, friends being present from Mere-dossia, Beardstown, Bluffs, Bluff Springs and other nearby places.
Beardstown sent over a special delegation of 40 people.For some time the good people of this church have had in mind the remodeling of the building which was built in 1871. The committee appointed to collect funds for this purpose met with signal success and all the money was raised, so at the rededication it was not necessary to ask for a cent along this line. In raising the money the Ladies' Aid society and the Lutheran league have taken a prominent part.$200 for Missions.
To show the giving spirit of the people of this church, there was a collection taken at the services yesterday for missionary work and over $200 was contributed, the largest amount ever given for that cause in a single day in the history of the organization.The first pastor of the church was Rev. Mr. Rels. There have been a number of ministers who have occupied the pulpit and administered to the wants of the people there. The present pastor is Rev. Bruno Gatten, who came there two years ago from Chester, Ill., where he was pastor of the Lutheran church. He has been an indefatigable worker for the upbuilding of the cause of Christ in that community, and he took no little part in the enterprise which was consummated at the Sunday services.Building Greatly Improved.

SUNDAY AT HOME IN DECATURWinchester Was Home of Deceased for Many Years—Smith-Wade Wedding Sunday Afternoon—
Other News Notes of Scott County People.Mrs. Rebecca Hankins, mother of J. W. Hankins, the North West street grocer, Jacksonville, and for many years a resident of Winchester, passed away Sunday evening at 6 o'clock at the home of her son, Robert J. Hankins in Decatur. She was 76 years, 8 months and 20 days old at the time of death, which came after an illness of several months of apoplexy. Funeral services will be at the Christian church in Winchester Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with the Rev. G. E. Prewitt, pastor of the church, in charge. Interment will be made in Winchester cemetery.
Mrs. Hankins was born in Tennessee but when very young she moved to Kentucky and there spent most of her youth. She was married to John Hankins in 1873 in Winchester, Ill. He died May 28, 1905. Four sons were born to the union, J. C. Hankins, who was killed a week ago last Saturday evening near Clinton, by an I. T. C. car while he was on his way to see his mother; R. J. Hankins, Decatur; J. W. Hankins, Jacksonville, and A.
L. Hankins, Peoria. She also leaves the following step-children: J. H.
Hankins, Wilson, Kan.; Mrs. Julia Carlton and Mrs. Lizzie Canatney, both of Winchester.Smith-Wade Wedding.
Arthur Smith and Miss Mary Wade were married Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock by the Rev. George W. Mur-church since the remodeling and the rededication has been completed.
The building has been changed not only outwardly but inwardly. Especial mention should be made of the beautifully decorated walls, of the new windows, the new floor, and the handsome seats. A new pipe organ has also been added which will add materially to the song services. A new lighting system has also been installed and the Sunday school room and the league room present a very attractive appearance. Many complimentary remarks were passed at the services Sunday by those who had long worshipped there as well as by those who came a long distance to show their kindly interest toward the people of that denomination. The above out of the church was obtained thru the kindness of the

The trustees of the church are kamp, Henry Duffelmeyer, John D.

Sunday school is Henry Niestradt, and the superintendent of the Lutheran league is Arthur Schmidt.The exercises in the morning opened at 10:30 and were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Gatten. The German sermon was by Rev. E. Schmidt of Postville, Iowa, a former pastor of the church. The English sermon was by Rev. R. Neuman, D. D., of Burlington, Ia. At noon hour a countful basket dinner was served.
The altar service in the afternoon at 2:15 was by Rev. R. Neuman and the English sermon by Rev. R. L.
Yarger, D. D., of Chicago, general superintendent of missions. His sermon was followed with two addresses, one by Rev. B. C. Croll of Beardstown, and the other by Rev. T.
A. Sorenson of Bluffs. The services held at 7:30 were of the English and the sermon was preached by Dr.
H. L. Yarger.Was Red Letter Day.
Interpreting these sermons and addresses were special numbers by the choir both in English and in German. The music was inspiring and all of the services were of an unfailing character. The occasion was certainly a Red Letter Day in the history of St. Peter's Lutheran church, and the people of that community have every reason to feel proud of the way in which they have advanced the interests of the Lord.The bride was the daughter of Richard Wade and has been her home near Decatur. The groom is are young people of excellent repute

AUDITING OF ACCOUNT.May Seek to Recover Certain Amounts Shown as Delinquent—Fund Transfer Made to Lessen Indebtedness.At the city council meeting Monday morning the question of auditing the city's books occupied more attention than any other subject. Mr.
Widmayer mentioned that arrangements should be made for an audit in accordance with legal requirements and the matter was referred to him with power to act. The audit proper will cover the last fiscal year ending May 1st and there is a possibility that the audit of assessment funds may be carried back for four or five years to the time of the so termed Morrissey audit. Early in the session a resolution was read by Mr. Pyatt making provision for the transfer of $2,500 from the bond interest fund to the sinking fund.
This was done to take advantage of an accumulation there is in the payment of refunding bonds of the issue of 1899.Mayor Rodgers reported progress of the work on the South Main street paving and mentioned the arrangements which have been made for leaving space for railway switch which can be built later on without disturbing the pavement. Instead of rails, timbers will be laid on the ties and these can be removed when it comes time to lay the steel.Mr. Vasconcellos reported that the repair work on the Russell engine is still in progress and that it had been necessary to replace several flues in the boiler the past week. He has ordered additional flues which will be kept on hand for emergency purposes.The ordinance providing for disconnecting from the city twenty acres of the land belonging to the Ralph Reynolds estate was given a second reading but action was deferred until the next meeting. Mayor Rodgers said that he felt personally inclined to grant the petition but without further investigation did not feel like taking this action for the city because of the precedent it would set. He thought that it would not be for the general good of the whole city to permit properties to be disconnected, thus reducing the area of the city and the amount of taxable property. He suggested that action be deferred and on motion of Mr. Martin with a second by Mr.
Widmayer, this was the order.The executors of the Reynolds estate think that it is reasonable to ask that the twenty acres be disconnected because the land is unimproved and they do not consider that it presents any possibilities of being subdivided and sold for city lots.
They say further that there are no city facilities such as water, gas and light or sewer there, and that it is only reasonable to suppose that the land will continue in future years to be farm property.A resolution was read in accordance with the public improvement law and subsequent action was taken on it by the board of local improvement, indicating that the sum of $4,133.44 is now due the Interstate Paving company for work completed on South Main street. This resolution was signed by E. M. Henderson, city engineer.Mr. Widmayer brought up the question of auditing the city's books and said that it was necessary that this be done in accordance with the law. He said that R. A. Gates had asked for an opportunity to figure on the work and that Joseph Bouby of the Interstate Paving company, who is an expert accountant, would also like to be considered. Mr. Widmayer said the question was as to the extent of the audit and the mayor and commissioners seemed to feel that as books had been audited regularly for a number of years past except for the year ending last May, that the one year report would be all that was necessary. Mr. Widmayer then asked Mr. Bouby who was present to make a statement with reference to special assessment records. Mr. Bouby said that in looking over the various audits made to enforce collection of balances due on special assessments as shown by the Morrissey audit. He believed that if an audit were made now and proper steps taken that more than enough money to pay for the audit would be recovered. A number of shortages shown by the Morrissey audit were against insurance companies for payments which they are required to make under the law, and Mr. Bouby said that these could be collected if the matter were brought to the attention of the commissioners.Mayor Rodgers said that he had spent several weeks in going over the special assessment funds and had found that the shortage remaining unpaid which had supposedly been $13,000 for $14,000 was in reality about $20,000. This difference is accounted for by the fact of accrued interest on the shortage and due in some measure also to the practice the city treasurers have had of discounting the interest on installments no matter when paid. He said that Mr. Farrell had followed the right plan in that he had insisted upon the payment of interest until the time the bond could be paid off, no matter when the property owners paid in the money. The mayor remarked that this practice was correct, although several property owners had been offended by it and he said furthermore that Treasurer Graff is following the same plan.The discussion ended with the understanding that Mr. Widmayer will make such arrangements as he deems best for the audit of the one year period ending last May, and the question of auditing the assessment records for the four or five year period will be given further consideration.

The Indian hunters are still on the trail of rare animals, for it is planned to send no less than 48 skins, all of different kinds, and each to represent a State in the Union. Some of the more valuable pieces of fur have been in possession of the chiefs for a half century. Chief Three Bears has repeatedly refused large sums for one skin which he is contributing to the pack that will soon be sent to the future lady of the

NICHOLAS VACHEL LINDSAY TO BE HEARD AGAIN IN JACKSONVILLE

Well Known Author and Poet Will Address Audiences in David Prince School Friday, Dec. 16—Announcement by Drama League—Books at Library.

Nicholas Vachel Lindsay of Springfield, the well known poet and author whose appearance here last winter was warmly greeted, will be in Jacksonville Friday, Dec. 16, and will speak to audiences in the David Prince school, according to announcement made yesterday by the Jacksonville Center of the Drama League, assembled for a business meeting at the public library. In the afternoon Mr. Lindsay will read from his poems. Friday evening he will lecture on "The Art of the Moving Picture."

Mr. Lindsay has recently written a book on the moving picture in which he describes the types of photo plays, "discusses the likeness of the motion picture to the old Egyptian picture writing, summarizes the one hundred points differences between the legitimate drama and the film drama, indicates that the best censorship is a public sense of beauty, and takes up the value of scientific films, new films, educational and political films."

The number of Mr. Lindsay's admirers is growing day by day and no one who heard him last winter in "General Booth," "The Congo" with a number of his shorter poems will let this opportunity pass to hear him next month, when "The Chinese Nightingale" and others of his newer works will be rendered.

Mr. Lindsay's Previous Visit.
Last winter on Wednesday, Jan.
13, Mr. Lindsay read his poems at the library. The audience room was filled to its capacity. The library has often been the center for groups of enthusiastic citizens but never has there been a meeting with more vitality and far reaching results.

Mr. Lindsay believes in beauty right here at home and finds it no matter in what disguise, whether in the Santa Fe trail, thru the caliche at a fireman's ball, in a study of the negro race, with the salvation army or in a Chinese laundry.

After the reading, there were many reserves on Mr. Lindsay's books and the interest in them has continued during the year. Now when the Drama League is going to bring him to the David Prince school so that an even larger audience may appreciate him, the books are in great demand and extra copies have been loaned to the library by individuals owning them to meet this need. These books may be reserved by telephone.
They are:

Works of Vachel Lindsay.
Adventures While Preaching the Gospel of Beauty. This gives an account of Mr. Lindsay's walking trip across Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and up and down Colorado and New Mexico. According to the Nation "it has a sociological interest and if it procures many readers the author will have served his purpose less by preaching than by the report he gives of social and cultural deficiencies in the rural west" and the Survey reports "that this is a book to commend to all social workers who are saddened and perhaps almost crushed by city problems," while in the New York Times we find this tribute "Here is a genuine rooted love for fields and simple folk for God and little birds, all informed by the prophet's realization of beauty. Here is sweetness and serenity and a nice awareness to the unending comedy of life."

The Congo and Other Poems. In the Boston Transcript we find this statement, "The Vision of the middle west is evoked in Mr. Lindsay's moods." Of course his work especially appeals to the people of Illinois, because as Robert B. Peattie says in his full page article in the Sunday Tribune of last spring, "The work of at least two native poets gives color to the idea that a school of Illinois poetry may arise. These men are Edgar Lee Masters of Chicago and Vachel Lindsay of Springfield."

General William Booth Enters Heaven. "Few poets of today see things in their larger aspects as clearly as does Nicholas Vachel Lindsay," says Jessie B. Rittenhouse, whose Little Book of Modern Verse is a pageant of American poetry of the present.

Chinese Nightingale. This has not appeared in book form but two copies of it are in the library in Poetry the little magazine in which it was pub-

GRAND LODGE OF ODD FELLOWS WILL MEET IN SPRINGFIELD

State Gathering Also of Rebekah and Encampment—Many Will Attend From This City.

Monday the representatives of the Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and the two encampments left for Springfield, where they will attend the state sessions of the three bodies which open today. During the week it is probable that several hundred Odd Fellows and Rebekahs will attend meetings. The degree team of Caritas Lodge, No. 625 of this city will confer the work of the Rebekah degree in the state armory this evening.
The team, the names of which were published in the Journal Sunday morning will go to Springfield today under the captaincy of Ellis Henderson.

Representatives of the several bodies:
Illini Lodge No. 4—P. G. Stein.
Urania Lodge No. 243—Charles Seymour.

Ridgley Encampment No. 9—W.
C. Howe.
Temple Encampment No. 19—T.
S. Martin.

Jacksonville Rebekah Lodge No.
13—Mrs. J. L. Pine.

Caritas Rebekah Lodge No. 625—Mrs. Wallace Brockman.

In addition to the foregoing, Mrs.
Myrtle W. Tandy, state president of the Rebekah assembly will be present and preside at the sessions of that body. Mrs. Tandy's term as state president closes with this meeting. It is not known whether or not she will be a candidate for any other office.

Springfield has made elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the visitors. The grand master will have headquarters at the St.
Nicholas hotel which will be general headquarters. A school of instruction was held in the hall of representatives at the state house Monday by H. M. Blood, chief of examiners and instructors. The encampment branch held a school of instruction Monday in Odd Fellows Temple.
Wednesday a big parade will be a feature and it is expected that thousands of Odd Fellows will be in line. Fifty children from the Orphan's home at Lincoln will participate in the parade as well as the band from that institution.

When the sessions of the various bodies being there will be but little time for any entertainment. The grand lodge sessions will run thru Thursday. The sessions of the encampment and the Rebekah assembly are shorter.

As is usual there is lots of preliminary maneuvering and politics being played prior to the opening of the sessions of the various bodies.
While there are always several candidates for offices in fraternal organizations the successful candidates are usually known before the vote is taken. It is generally conceded that H. M. Blood of Chicago will be elected to the office of grand warden. Mrs. Lottie D. Scherrer of Granite City is likely to be selected as warden of the Rebekahs and Huntington James of Kankakee is thought to be in line for election as grand junior warden in the encampment.
All of these offices eventually lead to the highest office in the body.

MERCURY AT 12 ABOVE

The balmy days so much enjoyed have unquestionably left us and winter will proceed to hold sway from this time forth till spring comes with its milder days. Sunday morning was dark and gloomy and during the morning some cool rain fell and the mercury went down to twenty above and some reported sixteen. Monday dawned cold and disagreeable but warmed up more at noon. In the evening however a reliable gentleman said the thermometer at his house in a protected place showed only 12 above which with the wind made people shug their shoulders and hunt the stove in a lively manner. It is well for the corn and all feel better for the chilly weather.

RIERS in the larger cities.

NO MORE BASEBALL THIS YEAR.

The cold weather has ended the baseball business as far as Jacksonville is concerned for this year and other amusements in its place will have to be sought. There was a game scheduled for Sunday but Manager McCollister deemed it unwise to try to pull it off and accordingly did his best to get in touch with the Indies at Springfield but without avail and not knowing the game had been cancelled they arrived in Jacksonville in the morning. McCollister repaid their expenses and they enjoyed a visit with local friends and returned.

NEW NAUTILUS MANAGER.

John Walton Collins, who was elected as business manager of the Nautilus, the High School publication, resigned his position Monday and Earl Priest was elected to fill his place. Mr. Collins is actively engaged in a number of student enterprises and his father, Supt. Collins thought it best that he resign from this work.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hoffman, Miss Irene Sims and Mrs. Mary Minch motored to Springfield Sunday in Mr. Hoffman's car.

SUBJECTS ARE ANNOUNCED FOR Y. M. C. A. WEEK OF PRAYER

Secretary Snyder Calls Attention to National Observance in Progress
This Week—Other Association News.

Secretary Alva L. Snyder received announcement recently of Y. M. C. A. Week of Prayer for Young Men, Nov. 14 to 20, from the International committee of Young Men's Christian associations of New York City, and also no formal observance will be made in Jacksonville, the secretary requests remembrance of the association by all Christians and calls attention to the subjects and subjects of this week. "Prayer for the evangelistic mission of the association," was the Sunday subject, and "Prayer for the association in its relation to the Christian church" was the subject Monday. Today all are urged to "pray for Divine help to meet the pressing problems of our day." Wednesday Secretary Snyder requests attention to the week of prayer topic in all of the mid-week services of the city for the raising up of leaders and workers. For the remainder of the week the subjects are: Thursday, "Prayer for the work among young men in non-Christian lands"; Friday "Prayer for association men at work among the millions of men now under arms"; Saturday, "Prayer for the preservation of the international bonds among the associations of the world in the midst of the present conflict."

Many Calls for Work.
Almost daily inquiries come to the association office for information as to suitable rooming and boarding places and requests for work are constantly coming to the attention of the secretary. Mr. Snyder will appreciate information from merchants, householders and others of any amount of work which they at any time have available and will to the best of his ability see that young men receiving such work give satisfaction.

The hike Saturday for the Junior boys was a great success and the season for long walks is practically closed, announcement has been made of an intermediate hike for Friday forenoon, made possible by the dismissal of the schools for the state teachers' meeting at Champaign. Physical Director Brewer has plans well under way and a good time is anticipated by the intermediate boys.

"This is it" was the remarkable sign that met the gaze of the company of twenty-five Junior boys who left the association building shortly before nine o'clock Saturday morning on a hike with destination unknown. Mr. Brewer and two of the older boys had previously blazed the trail and on visiting a spot near Mauvaisterre creek southeast of the city early the same morning, had built up a big camp fire and set to cooking a pot of pork and beans. The boys enjoyed a hearty meal and found the purpose of the cup and spoon and 4c in money which they had been instructed to bring.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

OF HARVEY KELLEY.
A sad accident resulting in the death of Harvey Kelley, a machinist for the Alton for a year and formerly night roundhouse foreman, both at Bloomington and Roodhouse, took place Sunday morning. He had joined a party of hunters and left Roodhouse in an automobile riding in the rear seat. When the place to leave the car was reached Kelley reached for his gun which was on the front seat and pulled it toward him with the muzzle pointing at his head. The trigger was caught in the wraps and the gun was discharged, the load entering the side of his head causing instant death. His comrades were horrified while his wife is prostrated with grief.

His parents reside in Cedar Rapids where he lived before he entered the employ of the Alton five years ago. He held various positions and was well liked by the officers of the road. He was forty years of age and very popular with all who knew him. The remains will probably be taken to Cedar Rapids for interment. He leaves a widow and three children.

FIREMAN KILLED.

Fireman Edward Rush on the Alton was killed at Venice while handling a switch engine. He was leaning out of his cab looking for signals and his head collided with a box car, and he was knocked senseless and died without regaining consciousness. For twenty years his father was section foreman at East St. Louis for the Alton. He had an uncle, John Roach, supervisor for maintenance department at Alton. He was single but leave several brothers and sisters and his mother.

CARTHAGE GAME WILL PROBABLY BE LAST FOR ILLINOIS COLLEGE

Monmouth College Will Not Come Thanksgiving Day and Southern Illinois Normal Has Game Scheduled for Turkey Day.

All efforts by Coach Harmon to land a football game for Thanksgiving day have failed and the contest with Carthage next Saturday will be the last time the Illinois college team will be seen in action. Coach Harmon received word Monday from Coach McAndrews stating that Southern Illinois Normal had a game scheduled for Thanksgiving day. Hopes of a round with Monmouth also went glimmering yesterday when that school refused to come. The time is drawing so near that it is not probable that a game can be secured. A statement was made a few days ago that Monmouth and Lombard had played a 6 to 6 score, but it was later found out that it was the second teams of the two institutions that played.

On account of the death of Paul Root, fullback of the Eastern Illinois State Normal, who was injured in Saturday's game, the Normal school will not play Millikin on turkey day.

His name has also been proposed to the Morgan County Bar Association and he is now one of its members. Mr. Armstrong has been studying law for several years. He received his degree from Hamilton college about a year ago. He expects to take up his practice in the early spring and his many friends in Jacksonville will wish him success.
